

Dear Rising Seventh Grader and Parent,

Our summer reading continues the Narnia series as we read The Silver Chair by C.S. Lewis. I enjoy teaching this novel because, in some aspects, this story is a reflection of C.S. Lewis' journey to Christianity. We join a transformed Eustace, his classmate Jill Pole, and the Marshwiggle Puddleglum as they search for Caspian's son Rilian, the heir to the Narnian throne.

Students should read the novel before school begins. We will discuss the book at the beginning of the school year and will have an assessment.

In the past, the students and I read this book during the school year and discussed the elements of this narrative in class. Since we are reading this during the summer, I have a series of Google classroom "lectures" (most of these will be five minutes or less) and a reading check over each chapter. These are required. I am working on these lectures and reading checks and will add them to our Google classroom by mid-June. In addition, students should complete the shark-fin plot diagram.

I am setting up my Google Classroom for 24-25 7th Grade English. Students may join my classroom by doing one of the following:

1. Respond to the Gmail email invite that I will send to their school Gmail accounts in May.
2. Join Google Classrooms using the code 56yes5a for 24-25 7th Grade English.

Please feel free to contact me via email (kterry@chcslongview.com) with any questions.

Many blessings,

Mrs. Karol Terry
